6:30 p.m. Registration Seminar - 7 - 9 p.m.
Future Inns Halifax Hotel & Conference Centre 30 Fairfax Dr, Halifax

When a group of people living close together that are bound by rules not necessarily of their making, but which all have agreed to follow disputes will arise. It often results from desires and behaviours that clash with others in your condo community. The level of dispute can vary with differences in personalities, expectations, interpretations, or perceptions of rules. If the issue cannot be resolved at the local level using outside sources is a viable option. There are several resources available such as the Courts, Arbitration, Mediation, and a Dispute Resolution Process. These all come with different costs, levels of authority and powers. Our Dispute Resolution process is a relatively inexpensive and simpler way to handle everyday disputes that don't need the full authority of arbitration or the courts. Our presenters will discuss what to consider, what you need and how to use the Dispute Resolution Process effectively.
